CODE OF CONDUCT

For All Attendees at the Quantum Health Science Summit©

1. Integrity is fundamental to QRASM and representing Premier Research LabsTM. Our most cherished values are leadership, passion, accountability, collaboration, diversity and quality. This is the pillar of our collective companies as we move forward with a Global Vision.

2. Integrity means doing what is right. By acting with integrity, we reflect positively on the values and reputation of QRASM, PRLabsTM and the Quantum Science Summit©.

3. Comply with the Code and the Law. Understand the Code. Comply with the Code and the law wherever you are. Use good judgment and avoid even the appearance of improper behavior. Always Consider Your Actions, and Ask for Guidance if ever in doubt about a course of conduct.

4. Ask yourself the following questions:

- Is it consistent with the Code?
- Is it ethical? • Is it legal?
- Will it reflect well on me and the Summit?
- Would I want to read about it in the newspaper?

If the answer is “No” to any of these questions, then simply don’t do it!

5. If you are still uncertain, ask for guidance. The Code tries to capture many of the situations that Practitioners and Attendees will encounter, but cannot address every circumstance. You can seek help from any of the following:

- Your Instructors
- The Quantum Science Summits legal counsel
- Your Local Ethics Officer with the Government of Canada

6. Who Must Follow the Code?

The Code of Business Conduct applies to all Instructors, Attendees, Practitioners, Presenters and Support Staff.

7. If an issue does occur, deal with the issue promptly. Doing so will allow you and the effected parties an opportunity to deal with the issue and correct it, ideally before it becomes a violation of law or a risk to health, security or the Company's reputation.

8. Anonymity and Confidentiality. When you make a report to an Ethics & Compliance Office, you may choose to remain anonymous, although you are encouraged to identify yourself to facilitate communication. If you make your identity known, the Ethics & Compliance Office and investigators will take every reasonable precaution to keep your identity confidential, consistent with conducting a thorough and fair investigation. To help maintain confidentiality, avoid discussing these issues, or any investigation, with others around you. Because we strive to maintain strict confidentiality in all investigations, we may not be able to inform you of the outcome of an investigation.

9. Making False Accusations. We will certainly try to protect any person who raises a concern honestly, but it is a violation of the Code to knowingly make a false accusation, lie to investigators, or interfere or refuse to cooperate with a Code investigation. Honest reporting does not mean that you have to be right when you raise a concern; you just have to believe that the information you are providing is accurate.

For All Qualified Practitioners, Professionals & Health Students

"Collectively known as "Qualified Representatives"

1. Medical Claims. “Qualified representatives,” of QRASM (Quantum Reflex AnalysisSM), may not make claims to any individuals that QRASM can mitigate, diagnose, treat, prevent or cure any medical condition. They should follow all guidelines by Health Canada regarding medical statements.
2. Medications. “Qualified representatives” may not make recommendations regarding the medications that a practitioner’s client may be taking, including dosage levels. NML’s “qualified representatives” and instructors of QRASM may not state or infer that taking nutritional supplements can replace or reduce the need for doctor-prescribed medications.
3. Medical Conditions. “Qualified representatives” may not offer medical information or advice to practitioners clients about specific medical diseases or conditions and should follow the guidelines of Health Canada regarding medical claims.
4. Questions about a Medical Condition. If a client specifically asks, “Can QRASM cure ... [a medical condition]?”, “qualified representatives” should respond appropriately by saying something like: “The FDA and/or Health Canada does not allow us to make any medical claims. QRASM does not diagnose, treat, cure or prevent any medical condition.” However, QRASM practitioners might follow up by mentioning: “However, QRASM is an excellent practitioner technique for nutritional balancing. May I offer you more information about it?”

5. Supplement Claims. “Qualified representatives” may not make claims that a nutritional supplement can mitigate, diagnose, treat, prevent or cure any medical condition. QRASM “qualified representatives” are allowed to make nutritional supplement claims as indicated on a company’s nutritional product label and their product literature and in accordance with Health Canada’s health regulations.

6. Medical Emergencies. In the event that a QRASM practitioner’s client is experiencing severe symptoms while in the practitioner’s office (such as nausea and vomiting, inability to stand, heart attack-like symptoms, etc.), the “qualified representatives” should immediately refer the client to their physician or to the nearest hospital and in accordance with Health Canada’s health regulations. Call 911 immediately and an ambulance should be called if necessary.

7. Credentials. All degrees or certifications of “qualified representatives” listed on their business cards or in QRASM promotional literature must be current and up to date. NML’s “qualified representatives” of QRASM are responsible for providing a copy of their certification/credentials to NML to keep on file. In the event that a certification/credential lapses, the “qualified representatives” are responsible to inform us within 7 days that their credentials are out of date. The “qualified representatives” may not promote or advertise credentials that are out of date.
